

Red: Do not use these medications together - they will either directly interact or there is no possible benefit to using them at the same time.

Orange: Seachem® does not recommend using these medications together, as it is almost never necessary to use both at the same time, but they do not directly interact with each other.

Green: Seachem® does not recommend using these medications together if it can be avoided as the use of multiple medications can be very stressful to fish, but there are known situations where it is necessary. It is best to keep one medication in the food and the other in the water if possible.
